

Figure 1 shows the primary functional components of the membrane structure of a red blood cell.

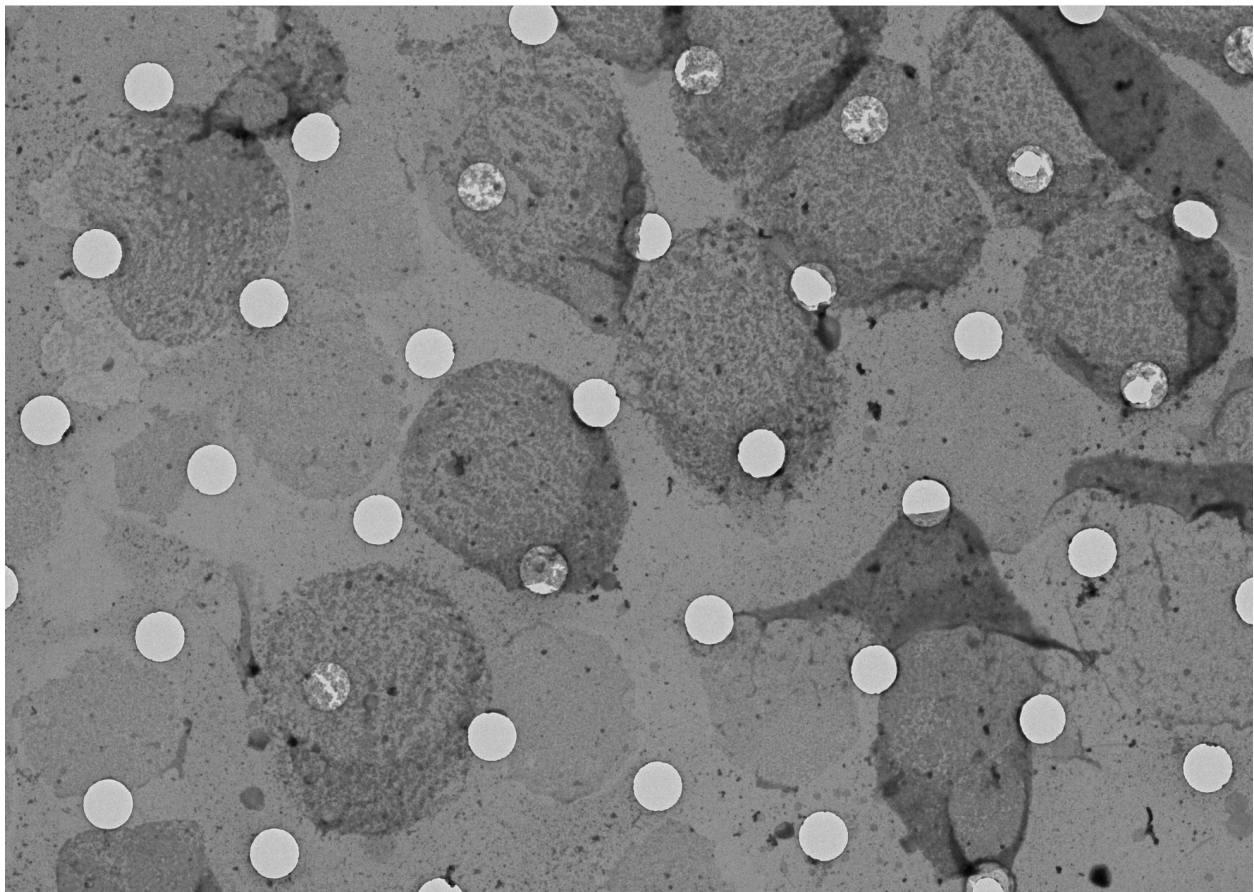

Figure 2. EM grids with negative staining of red blood cell membranes. The holes are 1 μm in diameter and 4 μm apart.